

Hi Larry,

Thanks for the information on your product. As you know I have been battling this odor problem for 5 years and had changed every part of my sanitation system (some pieces twice) at a cost of over two thousand dollars with temporary results. The 40 gal. holding tank along with other parts of that system are in the forward cabin under the queen bed. I can't tell you how many different types of deodorizers I tried along with the countless number of times I scrub that bilge area in an attempt to control the problem. Many a time the thought of selling the boat came into mind but finally I saw the ad in Power & Motoryacht and spoke with you and decided to go with the Bilge Buster 12 volt unit. It was an easy installation and worked immediately. In fact it took only minutes to clear the area and I now use only when we go down to the boat since it works so fast. I told a fellow boater and friend about it and they also purchased one and are just as pleased as we are. If you ever need an endorsement please give me a call and I'll gladly tell anyone how your product really works.

Thanks again,
